

AN ENGINE OVERTURNED

The Main Track Blocked and Trains Are Being Sent Around the Belt Line.

A FINE SHIP A TOTAL LOSS

A Plan for the Annexation of Berkley to Norfolk City Formulated by the Commission.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 12.—All Seaboard Air Line trains are being detoured via the Belt Line and Norfolk and Western Railway, on account of the collision near this city last night, when the outgoing engine was turned on its side by "side-swiping" engine No. 673, which had not cleared the main line. The overturned engine had not been removed when the morning express left.

Fireman James Lindray (colored), of Portsmouth, was very badly bruised and out in the accident, but his injuries are not necessarily serious. Engineer Gaskins escaped without injury, and the passengers were merely shaken up. The only damage to the car was the smashing of the front platform of the express car.

BULLETINS ON TRAINS.
Mr. C. B. Ryan, general passenger agent of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, is telegraphing bulletins of the war news to passengers on the limited trains of the system.

The navy tug Hercules, while bound from this navy yard to League Island, was caught in the terrific storm of Thursday and was barely able to return to port. Her experience was a hair-raising one.

Interest in the action of the Legislature on the subject of the bill appropriating the taxes upon railway terminal property and rolling stock among the various counties traversed by the several roads is unabated.

The county of Norfolk and the city of Portsmouth are fighting the bill with all the influence they can command, and they hope to defeat it in the committee which has it under consideration, and upon whose report the action of the House and Senate will be largely based.

Captain John W. Hopper, city attorney, who is endeavoring to save to the city the $7,000 taxes that she at present gets from the Seaboard Air Line Railway on its rolling stock assessment, said to-day that in his opinion the city and county have about won their fight at Richmond already.

SHIP TOTAL LOSS.
It now looks as though the fine ship Henry B. Hyde, ashore at Dam Neck would be a total loss. Her crew has arrived in the city and report her back broken. The crew lost all they had. The tug Britannia, which towed the Hyde ashore after missing the capes in the snow storm, will be libelled for the value of the ship, $500,000.

Governor Montague is expected to speak to-morrow night at the banquet of the Southern Advertising Bism Company to the tobaccoists of this section. A plan for the annexation of Berkley to Norfolk city was formulated at a meeting of the annexation commission to-night.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WYTHEVILLE, Va., Feb. 12.—Two of four negroes arrested on suspicion of having beat and robbed Mrs. McMillan at Ivanhoe yesterday have been discharged, and the other two will be given a preliminary hearing to-morrow. It is stated that there is strong circumstantial evidence against one of them. The money stolen has not been found.

SLEMP vs. AGNEW.

Martinsville Republicans Line Up on the Two Sides.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
MARTINSVILLE, Va., Feb. 12.—The first marshalling of forces between the Smith and Anglin faction of the county Republicans took place this afternoon in the precinct meeting to send delegates to the county convention to-morrow. The Smith faction evidently has the majority in the meeting, and as a result had an easy walk-over and elected their delegates. The Anglin men held an after meeting and elected another set of delegates. The fight will be on again to-morrow.

morrow in the larger arena of the county convention. The Smith people, led by Dr. C. P. Smith, postmaster and county chairman, and J. R. Smith, Commonwealth's attorney, are standing by Agnew. The Anglin following, led by J. B. Anglin and A. P. Jones, are supposed to be for Slemph.

MR. BRINTON WOUNDED.

President of Arsenic Mines Shot by One of His Employees.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
"CHRISTIANSBURG, Va., Feb. 12.—A phone message from the United States arsenic mines in Floyd county, a distance of fifteen miles from here, states that a shooting affray occurred there this afternoon, in which President C. R. Brinton was shot in the arm and slightly wounded by one of the employees, whose name could not be learned. That Mr. Brinton had been returned to the mines Wednesday from Pittsburg, where he had been on business for the last month, and on his return a dispute arose over the pay-roll with the above result.

The first message said there was a general fusillade of shots and that Mr. Brinton was mortally wounded, but a later message contradicts this account.

DEATH OF A VETERAN OF THE MEXICAN WAR

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WAVERLY, Va., Feb. 12.—G. W. Mapes, one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Sussex county, died at his home about four miles from Waverly this morning, from a second stroke of paralysis. Mr. Mapes was a native of the State of New York, and served in the Wisconsin regiment about five years ago. He was perhaps the only veteran of the Mexican War in Sussex county at the time of his death. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity and his remains will be buried in the Town Cemetery at 2 o'clock to-morrow.

The County School Board Endorse the Keesel Bill.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
FRANKLIN, Va., Feb. 12.—The county school board to-day passed resolutions expressing the belief that in the interest of economy and the general welfare of the public school system that a single system of books should prevail, endorsing Senator Keesel's bill, and requesting the State board of education to rescind its action.

Change of Venue.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
ELIZABETH, Va., Feb. 12.—A change of venue has been granted the defendant in the case of the Commonwealth of Virginia against John Catron, and the case will be tried in Lee county, Virginia, instead of Scott county. Catron is the man who is charged with having shot and killed two Democratic election judges at the Elizabeth election in Scott county, Virginia, last November.

The feeling is so intense in Scott county over the affair that it was deemed advisable to transfer the case to Lee county. Catron and Barrett, the latter being his alleged accomplice, have been in jail at Albion, Va., since the killing.

Staunton's Open House.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
STAUNTON, Va., Feb. 12.—The Committee on Public Grounds and Buildings of the City Council have been in conference with Mr. J. Klopfer, of the firm of J. B. McElrick & Sons, theatre architects, of New York, who came to Staunton at the solicitation of the City Council to examine and report on the Opera House. He said that he did not regard the Opera House as an especially bad, and he thought a few changes would make the old Opera House a desirable and safe one.

WILD DASH WAS MADE WITH NEGRO

he admitted felonious assault, but denied anything like criminal assault. Yesterday morning he was taken back to Gilliam, where his mother, Laura Williams, lives, and he then revealed the whereabouts of the stolen property now in the possession of the Baldwin people. The coat had been sold to a waiter at the hotel at North Fork W. Va.; the two watches were concealed in Laura Williams' place, and were dug out of the ground by one of the Baldwin men.

The Trip Here.

A posse, heavily armed, was made up, and with Williams in the midst, the party went to Walton, where it met a special train for Richmond. The wild dash across the State was then begun. Williams, an infuriated mob gathered and waited long at the station with the hope that the party would stop there. If it had Williams would have been torn to pieces. But the train sailed by at a forty-minute clip, and all Mr. Baldwin did was to waive one of the catchers out of the window and drop one or two letters to be mailed. At Lynchburg there was another crowd, but it made no demonstration; the party stopped and had dinner there. Baldwin was warned that a mob was gathering at Crewe to attack the train, and he made every preparation to repulse an assault. But no mob appeared.

The special pulled into Richmond about 5:30 o'clock last night. Quite a little crowd was in the Union Station, some there to see the negro and others to meet friends arriving on the incoming train. The only excitement was the incident recorded above. Mr. Heiberger, a brother of Mrs. Shields, who lives in this city, could not control himself when he saw the negro's face shining through a hideous grin, and he struck him. He was quickly overpowered by the officers, who released him as soon as they found out who he was. Several ladies were in the crowd.

Williams was at once taken in charge by Captain Shinnberger and a detail of Richmond police, including Officers J. H. Thomas, Jack Sheppard, Charles Hughes, Louis Werner and George H. H. Thomas, Jr. They were taken to the city jail, and at once locked up. Nobody was allowed to see him. Captain Shinnberger stayed at the jail during the night, and a watch was kept up on the outside until morning. There was no demonstration of any sort.

The Baldwin party went to the Powhatan Hotel, washed, and refusing supper, went at once to the Bijou Theatre. Seven guns—one mob gun and six Winchester—were handed over the hotel counter and carefully stored away behind the bar. The Baldwin party, however, was not so easily satisfied. The names of the men who composed the posse were W. G. Baldwin, A. H. Baldwin, D. O. Baldwin, T. L. Felts, L. C. Felts, J. D. Copenhaver and James O. Copenhaver. All have worked hard and their effective service has earned for them the gratitude of the State. They will leave the city to-day.

"I was not working for reward," said W. G. Baldwin last night, as he exhibited round him in the hotel. "My men gathered round him in the hotel. 'He men may want some of the money, but as for myself I shall not touch a cent of it. I was working to capture a miserable dog of a negro who had attacked a white woman.'

The Confession.

As stated above, Williams strenuously denies a criminal assault, and Mrs. Shields does the same. Detective Baldwin also believes that the crime was limited to robbery, and felonious assault. The confession of the negro was full and unqualified, and a deposition of it was made in the field by means of a stenographer. The confession was made in the presence of W. G. Baldwin, T. L. Felts, J. O. D. Copenhaver, Albert Baldwin, R. Copenhaver and Hugh Hinde. It is in full as follows:

"On Saturday (30th) I went from the depot to the market place at Roanoke; from the market place I went to the depot and then walked up Salem Avenue and turned up Henry Street. I went over to the livery stable in front of the old hotel, and found no one there. There was a colored woman, a low, heavy set woman, on the porch of the stable house when I went up to it. She had a bag in her hand, washing or something. She went into the house and I walked in. I went back into the kitchen and stood there eating. When the lady came she scared me, and I took a hatchet that I found lying on a shelf. I tell you that I did not intend to hurt her. I did not know how to handle the hatchet. I hit her with the flat side of the hatchet. She came at me with a 'lassa' pitcher I hit her something. I hit her again and she lay down on a chair. She did not fall down. The child cried and I slapped it over with my hand.

"Then she said to me: 'Get what you want, get all that you can.' I asked her for money, but she said that she had only fifty cents; she had something about a white pocketbook. I never saw the pocketbook. I never saw a money bag. She told me to go and look in a little white box. When I wanted her to get up she said that she could not walk and she handed me her hand and I took her wrist. I hit her the hatchet downstairs.

"I got one watch and a gold watch that there was another watch. She handed me a black suit that she said was her husband's, but I did not want it and dropped it there. She showed me another room and said that a lady owned that room. She then showed me a room which she said was Mr. Greenwood's, or some name like that, and she handed me a coat and said that that will fit you. I got the second watch in that room, and I saw no money.

"I then started to go away and she picked up a razor and said that it was a diamond blade. I took it away from her and then she dashed back with it at my head. I dodged her. I never had a knife, and I never tried to cut her throat with a knife. When I saw that I had cut her I took her and put her in the closet. I put the chair against the closet. She said that her husband would be there soon. The only name that she called while I was there was Greenwood.

"I saw a white man with a brown overcoat that I went there. I never burned the baby, that is something new to me. I never saw no burning.

"I came out of the house by the alley and out into the street. There was some one came with groceries when I was in the house. I did not know how long I was in there.

"I did not have a watch on at all. I had a heavy shirt; just the same clothes that I always wear in the bank when I am at work. I saw a white man with a brown overcoat on while I was coming out of the house.

"The negro denied a criminal assault, and continued:

"I gave the watches to my mother; and the coat I left to Albert Hinde, a waiter at the North Fork (W. Va.) Hotel. I only took a cent. I did not take a vest. I was with the crowd when they came up around the house. If I had been arrested then the watches would have been found on me. I left Roanoke on transportation No. 3 on Sunday. I stayed Saturday night at Alice Williams' restaurant. I paid her fifty cents for my bed and breakfast.

"I stayed at a track walker's shanty on Wednesday night. I stayed at Jack Howard's at Christiansburg on Thursday night, and I stayed at Roanoke on Friday night. I was in and out of the house. She called me in and said that they had killed the dog. She put the big watch in her stocking leg.

"I was sent to the penitentiary from Roanoke in 1904 for two years for knocking a man named Scott on the head with a baseball bat."

Laughter and Talked.

Speaking of the trip last night, Detective Baldwin said Williams made no attempt whatsoever to escape. He was afraid of the crowd and could not have been forced to leave the posse, his protectors. He laughed and talked all the way to Richmond.

SATISFACTION FELT.

Special Grand Jury Summoned to Meet Monday.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
ROANOKE, Va., Feb. 12.—A special grand jury has been summoned for Monday to indict the negro Henry Williams, who assaulted Mrs. Shields and her little daughter, who was captured in West Virginia and taken to Richmond to-day for safekeeping.

The people of Roanoke are enthusiastic over the capture of the negro. The secret was well kept by the police, and it was not known here that he was captured until the special train ran through the city at the rate of thirty miles an hour.

President Johnson, who was on the train coming from the West, arranged for the special when the train reached Salem. The negro is not well known to the police. He was here ten years ago, went to Pennsylvania, and did not come back until the day before he entered the Shields home.

PRECAUTIONS.

Police Looked After Negro at Lynchburg While Detectives Ate.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
LYNCHBURG, Va., Feb. 12.—The negro Henry Williams, who has been charged with an assault on Mrs. Shields in Roanoke, was brought through Lynchburg this afternoon on the way to Richmond. When the special pulled into the Union Station, it was received by a crowd of two or three hundred persons.

Several stalwart Lynchburg policemen took charge of the car, while Detective Baldwin and his men went into the restaurant to get a lunch. The crowd at the depot was entirely orderly. Coffee and sandwiches were given the negro, and as he took them he smiled as if he were perfectly satisfied. He did not seem to be in the least alarmed over the situation, and he was seen to laugh several times while the train remained at the depot.

He freely admitted that he was guilty, but claimed that he did not commit criminal assault.

Money cheerfully refunded on any purchase not entirely satisfactory.

TO RISE IN SPLENDOR

New Baltimore to be More Modern, Substantial and Symmetrical Than the Old.

THE STREETS TO BE WIDER

Mayor and Committee Determine to Issue No Building Permits as Yet.

(By Associated Press.)

BALTIMORE, Feb. 12.—That Baltimore is to rise from its ashes more substantial, more modern and far more symmetrical needs no further proof than was made manifest to-day by renewed expressions on the part of Mayor McLane and the Committee of Public Safety and by leading citizens that no building permits shall be issued until a plan of reorganizing certain thoroughfares whose crookedness and narrowness have long constituted a blemish as well as a serious embarrassment to municipal growth has been adopted. The Mayor and the Committee of Safety are resolved that shells of buildings shall not be run up between fire-proof structures, as in the past, and thus serve as a standing invitation to the flames.

The business situation appeared brighter to-day than at any time since the great catastrophe. The regular transaction of business in the Chamber of Commerce, including displays of Southern grain, hay, straw and mill feed and the three usual calls and the posting of out-of-town markets, together with the receipt of grain by elevators and the payment of all checks by banks, were events that established confidence throughout the business community.

MONEY IN PLENTY.

Secretary Shaw's splendid response to the call for currency has excited the admiration of all financiers here. By his prompt action all obstacles were swept away, and Assistant Treasurer Bryden, in Baltimore, is able to furnish any amount of money in any denomination desired. One bank has had $500,000 transferred by wire from New York and large sums have been secured by several other banks, including savings institutions. Secretary Shaw's arrangement to transfer money by telegraph to Baltimore from all cities having sub-treasuries will probably be made a permanent thing. If it is Baltimore will secure an advantage that it has long sought.

The decision of the Baltimore clearing house to resume exchanges between clearing house banks will remove much inconvenience now handicapping business. This will be done on Monday, and will restore an important function of the banking business.

The offer of a New York Insurance company to lend $2,000,000 in Baltimore for rebuilding purposes is a striking illustration of the readiness of outside capital to invest in this city. This money is offered at 4-1/2 per cent, free of commission. Another insurance company has offered to lend the city $500,000, available at once.

CLEARING STREETS.

The task of clearing the piles of brick, mortar and rubbish from the streets in the fire scourged district was pushed forward to-day with marvelous energy. Building Inspector Preston, with a vast multitude of workmen, has been on the debris and great progress has been made.

Baltimore Street has already been cleared from Liberty Street to Jones's Falls. The debris is being thrown on the side and the entire middle of the street is clear. A large number of the men are now working on German, South and Lombard Streets, and along the water front, and the cleaning up here is also progressing rapidly with the exception of along the wharves on Pratt Street. Here the men are greatly hampered by having no place to throw the debris except into the basin.

The work of emptying the safe deposit vaults in the ruined buildings has progressed rapidly. This is being done with extraordinary precautions. An escort of cavalry accompanies the wagons in which the treasures are hauled. Sharpshooters in plain clothes ride on the wagons and detectives follow closely on the sidewalks.

Clerks of the banks owning the valuables are also on the wagons and have the vaults constantly on their minds. Along the route chosen the police are also on the alert, and it is impossible to get within ten feet of these vehicles. The money and securities in these vaults are being carried to the vaults of banks and companies that escaped the fire.

Editor of The Times-Dispatch:
Sir—As one of the five members of the board of supervisors of Mecklenburg county that was present at a called meeting held at Eoydon on the 8th instant, I wish to convey the unanimous sentiment of the board, as expressed by Mr. W. H. L. Neims, of Chase City.

Mr. Neims states that the board ignored the request of the citizens of Chase City, and passed the following quarantine law: "That a strict quarantine be enforced, extending half a mile beyond the corporate limits of the town, restricting ingress and egress of all persons, except physicians in discharge of their duties, and that no person be allowed to enter the town to be enforced by guards." Mr. Neims states that "there was a lack of interest and co-operation on the part of the board of supervisors to provide the necessary funds, or commit themselves to approve such bills as may be hereafter presented to them for the stamping out of the disease."

It is to be stated that Mr. Neims has been misinformed. The board did not pass the quarantine against Chase City, as it had no power to do so even if it had been so disposed, as that power was only with the local or county Board of Health.

As to the second charge, I wish to state that the board passed a resolution, which is recorded in the minutes, pledging its co-operation with the Board of Health in

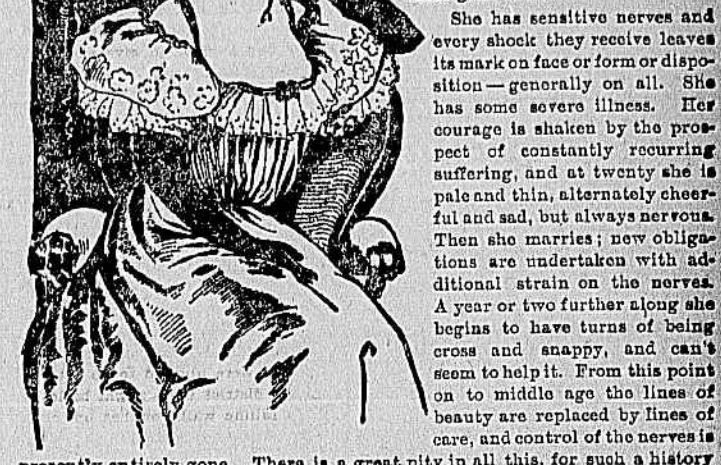

WEAK AND NERVOUS WOMEN

MADE STRONG AND WELL BY

DR. GREENE'S NERVURA.

Woman's life is a tragedy. It is a succession of defeats. Through ignorance the first experiences of womanhood are encountered without the slightest preparation, and the nerves receive their first serious shock.

Nothing is done to relieve the young woman. No one seems to possess the knowledge which will aid her. The family physician makes light of her troubles and tells her that all women have them. She is a beautiful girl and should make a beautiful woman. Her disposition is sweet, her form and movement full of grace. Why can she not retain these gifts of nature?

She has sensitive nerves and every shock they receive leaves its mark on face or form or disposition—generally on all. She has some severe illness. Her courage is shaken by the prospect of constantly recurring suffering, and at twenty she is pale and thin, alternately cheerful and sad, but always nervous. Then she marries; new obligations are undertaken with additional strain on the nerves. A year or two further along she begins to have turns of being cross and snappy, and can't seem to help it. From this point on to middle age the lines of beauty are replaced by lines of care, and control of the nerves is presently entirely gone. There is a great pity in all this, for such a history is common.

Dr. Greene's Nervura

Blood and Nerve Remedy

MAKES PEOPLE STRONG, VIGOROUS AND WELL.

What a blessing Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is to such women! It sustains them in every trial and fortifies them for their daily duties. It makes women strong enough to do their whole duty without fatigue. It sustains the physical strength and the physical beauty and wards off nervousness by natural means. It is a perfect support at any stage of woman's life. The greatest medicine for weak and suffering women ever prepared.

Mrs. Alice Craig, of Peoria, Ill., says: "I was stricken with nervous disease which affected my heart, head and stomach. I doctored with physicians of our town, but got no relief from the terrible sick headaches, pains in the heart and stomach until I used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Before I used this wonderful medicine the nerves in my eyes were so affected that I feared that I would lose my sight. I would get so nervous and weak I could not walk across the room without terrible palpitation of the heart. I had not taken one bottle of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy before my head and eyes were cleared of their dull aching, and I am growing stronger every day. I cannot do half justice in the praise of this medicine."

The discoverer of this health-building remedy is Dr. Greene, of 101 Fifth Avenue, New York City, and all women may consult him personally or by letter without charge. The young, middle-aged, or old will find his advice the promptest and surest help. Write freely for advice or call upon him.
